First stop the Front Desk!

---

After saying hi to everyone, the circulation staff let me help them out at the front desk answering questions and checking out books, movies and technology!

Graphic Novel and Magazine Corner

Working the front desk was exhausting! I definitely needed a break so I sat down and read some graphic novels in these cool bean bag chairs.

Children's Corner

---

Next we went on a tour of the library. My favorite part was the children's corner. There were picture books everywhere! I loved it. I also loved playing around with the AWE computer. It has so many cool games for the kids to learn a variety of subjects.

Beginner's Mahjong Club

When we went upstairs, the Mahjong Club was meeting. They were nice enough to let me join. I loved learning how to play Mahjong. I even got a winning hand! Must have been beginner's luck.

I happened to be visiting the library during the city's public employee appreciation week which was hosted at the library. I got to partake in some delicious food and even joined a group of firefighters for lunch. Don't tell anyone, but I may have snuck back for an extra cookie!

Dr. Seuss STEM Storytime

This is me with the tallest truffula tree I could build. It was hard work but STEM storytime was so much fun. Not only did we get to listen to some awesome books read by Ms. Lauren, we did so many fun activities! I really enjoyed seeing what would sink or float in the oobleck!

Lego Mania

I was lucky enough to be visiting during the Lego Mania program. I'm not sure how many Lego they have, but it sure is a lot! It was a blast getting to build with them as well as seeing what everyone else made too!

On Thursday, the after-school program was finishing up the volcanoes they made. Ms. Brittany let me assist in making the volcano she worked on erupt. It was so cool! Who knew vinegar, baking soda, food coloring, and dish soap could result in such a fun activity!

Government Career Day

One of the last programs I got to attend was the Government Career Day which the library hosted along with the city of West Fargo. A group of middle schoolers spent the day learning about the different jobs there are in city government. Here we're pictured with some of them while Kathy talks up the library and how cool it is to work at one. I have to say, after all the libraries I've visited this year, that is most definitely true!
